In order to impact language arts performance, general educators and interventionists will engage in collaborative planning led by the RST. Based on formative assessments including running records, writing focused on dictation, reader response and on-demand tasks, differentiated guided reading and writing instruction will be planned. 2. In order to impact language arts performance, general educators and interventionists will participate in professional learning with the RST around creating a classroom environment that encourages personalized learning and equitable opportunities for enrichment and acceleration. Year-round PD will focus on creating a community of readers, Guided Reading practices, strategy groups, and writing. 3. In order to impact language arts performance, staff will expose students to a band of text levels to determine accurate performance level placement. Through read aloud practices students will encounter higher level text to engage in comprehension tasks, not impacted by decoding/fluency issues.
